Baseball Project, The	El Hombre/Harvey Haddix	616948910488	Euclid	$12.99	7" vinyl	Coming on Record Store Day 2012 is the first Euclid Sessions single recorded at Euclid Records NOLA. The Baseball Project, made up of Steve Wynn, Scott McCaughey, Peter Buck and Linda Pitmon, perform "El Hombre" a rockin' little number that should become a major hit in Los Angeles this summer. Sorry St. Louis, but we'll try and get TBBP to write a number about Carlos Betran. The B-Side is "Harvey Haddix" a virtual who's who from that small fraternity of pitchers that have pitched perfect games in the big leagues and the man who was left off said list. As far as I know, this is the only song that gives a shout out to former Indian and Brave Len Barker. The cover will be a lenticular 3-D design by artist Amelie Mancini. Proceeds will benefit the estate of the late great NRBQ drummer Tom Ardolino. Deluxe 3D Cover.

Bloos Magoos	So I'm Wrong And You Are Right/Wild About My Lovin' / The People	090771724410	Sundazed Music	9.98	7" vinyl	As the Bloos Magoos, their debut 45, "So I'm Wrong and You Are Right" / "The People Had No Faces" was completely ignored upon its release in January '66. What a damn shame! "So I'm Wrong and You Are Right" is a tough protest lyric set to the Magoos' short-lived folk-rock fixation. Also firmly in the same bag, "The People Had No Faces" is a weird, wonderful little nugget in the band's catalog. Cut from the original Verve-Folkways mono masters, Sundazed is proud to showcase the Magoos' famously lost '65 session!
Blues Project	Parchman Farm / Bright Lights, Big City	090771724519	Sundazed Music	9.98	7" vinyl	Far ahead of its time, the Blues Project fine-tuned their eclecticism and built their reputation through their electrifying live shows in NYC. Appropriately, the group made their recorded debut with Live at the Cafe Au Go Go, which captured the group at the peak of its power, during a week long stand in November 1965 at the titular Greenwich Village club. This historic set of recordings also yielded a good deal of marvelous material that was left off the BP's first album. Two of those long-lost performances are featured here—the band's raw 'n mighty readings of a pair of blues classics, Mose Allison's "Parchman Farm" and Jimmy Reed's "Bright Lights, Big City." Sundazed is proud to present these two tracks for the first time on vinyl, direct from the original Verve Folkways mono masters

Upon signing with A&M Records, Captain Beefheart & his Magic Band debuted loudly, recording two singles in 1966, cementing their image as SunsetStrip "blues fiends" and paving the way for what was to become one of the most original careers in rock history. The band's cover of Bo Diddley's "Diddy Wah Diddy" garnered significant regional attention and considerable radio play courtesy of the Captain's unreal howl & Jerry Handley's deep, thundering bass sound, while the driving delta tributes "Who Do You Think You're Fooling" and "Frying Pan" sharply displayed the Captain's early songwriting prowess.

Clark, Gene	She's That Kind/One in a Hundred	090771724014	Sundazed Music	9.98	7" vinyl	The long-lost Byrds recordings... An under-the-radar Byrds' reunion took place in 1970 when the other four founding members of the pioneering folk rock group were invited to back up their principal songwriter and one-time frontman Gene Clark on two of Clark's finest compositions. Under the auspices of original Byrds' manager Jim Dickson, the session results were exquisite; each song a shining example of the Byrds' timelessly transcendent sound. The ever-chiming "One in a Hundred" and delicate "She's the Kind of Girl" (with subtle flute flourishes from Bud Shank) both undeniably bore the Byrds' signature sound. The proposed single should have been a huge hit for Gene...but like much of his post-Byrds career, bad luck intervened, as contractual obligations prevented the release of the single. Sundazed is elated to now present these legendary recordings here in their original, "unsweetened" form, sourced from the surviving, original rough-mix mono reels. Making for an exceptional single, these truly are the long lost Byrds tracks.

Afterward it promptly disappeared in the flotsam of Devo history. Here resurrected it stands as a testament to Prince's claim "Devo, you guys are crazy!" Yes, crazy tight and relentless like Caucasian James Browns on marching powder. Enjoy.

Dillard & Clark	Lyin' Down The Middle / Why Not Your Baby	090771724113	Sundazed Music	9.98	7" vinyl	Following the '68 release of the groundbreaking album The Fantastic Expedition of Dillard & Clark, Gene Clark and Doug Dillard returned to the studio in early '69 to record a new single for A&M. Country-rock was still in its formative stage and was certainly considered a commercial risk. The result was stunning. "Lyin' Down the Middle" unveiled itself as an infectious, uptempo country rocker, featuring one of Gene Clark's most inspired vocals and further enhanced by future-Eagle Bernie Leadon's supremely tasteful guitar-picking. For a follow-up single release just a few short months later, Dillard & Clark cut the lushly orchestrated Clark composition "Why Not Your Baby."

Genesis	Spot The Pigeon	780014100407	Audio Fidelity	$21.98	12" vinyl	Limited Edition (Only 3000 Units) 12" Blue Vinyl. Track Listing: Side One / 45 RPM Match of the Day - 3:24 Pigeons - 3:12 Inside and Out - 6:45 Side Two / 33 1/3 RPM Match of the Day - 3:24 Pigeons - 3:12 Inside and Out - 6:45 The three songs that comprise Spot the Pigeon were recorded during the Wind & Wuthering sessions. This was Genesis' final studio release before guitarist Steve Hackett's departure later in 1977. The rest of the band included, Mike Rutherford on guitars and bass, Tony Banks on keyboards and Phil Collins on drums, percussion and vocals. The songwriting on the record returned to the sound of early Genesis and showcased the Banks-Collins-Rutherford compositions with Steve Hackett contributing to the writing chores on 'Inside and Out'. The album basically marked the end of Genesis' progressive era and hinted at the radio-friendly pop structures that would dominate the music on the band's subsequent albums. The title is a variation on the football-themed spot the ball, replacing the word "ball" with "pigeon" so that the title links the themes of the first two songs.	3,000

Perry, Lee "Scratch"	Blackboard Jungle Dub	664425600513	Get On Down	$29.98	10" vinyl	In early 2011, Lee "Scratch" Perry's dub masterpiece "Blackboard Jungle Dub" was released by a then upstart independent imprint known as Get On Down. While we were just getting our feet wet with the new label, the quality and craftsmanship of the Lee Perry CD release quickly solidified Get On Down's commitment to procuring and restoring forgotten treasures in deluxe and noteworthy formats. The CD was released to critical and consumer acclaim and marked the first in our series of remastered Dub reggae classics. While we remain satisfied with the results of the still in print CD format, we were given an opportunity to explore a different avenue with this title for Record Store Day 2012. We took that opportunity and ran with it! We are very pleased to announce our first Record Store Day Exclusive; the Get On Down deluxe vinyl edition of Lee "Scratch" Perry and King Tubby's finest pairing – "Blackboard Jungle Dub". The package contains the full length album spread across three pieces of 10" red, yellow, and green colored vinyl, a 30" x 30" giant poster of the album's cover art, and is housed in full color hinged box secured with a magnetic clasp. We even went a step further with this release and sent the original version to our audio labs to be painstakingly remastered a second time to ensure 100% flawless audio sound quality. This record has truly NEVER sounded better. This is the definitive Blackboard Jungle Dub and a collector's keepsake we are proud to stand behind. We believe this is a perfect compliment to the quality of music contained herein and we are proud to support RSD '12. Limited to a strict 2000 copies

Preteen Zenith	Preteen Zenith	808510002411	Good Records Recordings	$19.99	12" vinyl	Limited Edition (2000 Units) Preteen Zenith is the new band from Tim DeLaughter of The Polyphonic Spree and Tripping Daisy. Tim began writing and demoing songs at home in Dallas in February 2009, with the intent of merely documenting new ideas. He continued the process in New York City that summer by subletting a small apartment to get away, as it were, and focus. He wound up recording the ideas on his laptop, and shared some on his blog (thefragilearmy.blogspot.com). Enter Philip E Karnats, a longtime friend and former bandmate from Tripping Daisy who went on to play with the Secret Machines and Ike Reilly and release a solo album through DeLaughter's Good Records Recordings label in 2006. Phil happened to invite Tim to Chicago just to hang out and do some improvising and recording. Tim was excited by the idea. "It had been a long time coming," DeLaughter says. "We'd had several conversations over the recent years about doing something together. We had no idea of what we'd do, but I was definitely looking forward to it!" Initially, the idea was to record and improvise and see what they came up with, something totally separate from the demos Tim had been working on.	2,000

Various Artists	Sacred Bones Presents: Todo Muere Vol. 2	616892034643	Sacred Bones	$15.98	12" vinyl	Sacred Bones is thrilled to present our second Record Store Day compilation, Todo Muere Vol. 2, featuring ten songs - nine of which have been previously unreleased or only released in limited edition. The first song, by Copenhagen's War, is a complete break from the "At War For Youth" 7" we released in February, and is a modern-day, post-apocalypse love song for the ages. Led Er Est's "The Gold Cane" is an outtake from their new full-length IP out in May, and mixed by Chris Coady. "Neon Lights," by Pop. 1280, was the A-side of a split with Hot Guts originally released on Philly's Badmaster Records. "Adult Living," the brand new single from our beloved Brisbane recreational drug enthusiasts, Slug Guts, shows a far more refined, instrumental performance, paired lovingly with a fully unhinged performance by frontman JD. The Crystal Stilts track "Dark Eyes" appears on their eP, Radiant Door, but the song is so good we felt it needed to be released twice. Side A closes with "Strange Desire" by Wymond Miles, of the Fresh & Onlys; this is a preview of his first full length which we will be releasing this summer.	1,500
